STATE'S WHITE CHIEFS TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Meet in Atlanta in June to Form New Organization—Negro Committee-man to Go.

There have been so many conflicting stories printed about republican pronouncements in Georgia, and the warfare between contesting factions in the party in this state that the public is naturally confused not only as to just what has and is liable to happen regarding the G. O. P. organization in Georgia, but as to the personnel of the new office holders and when they are to be appointed.

The following analysis of the situation by James A. Holloman, Washington correspondent of The Constitution, based upon developments brought down to the very hour of filing the dispatch last night, has been approved by administration leaders in Washington, and, therefore, may be accepted as authentic:

BY JAMES A. HOLLOWAY.
Constitution Bureau,
Raleigh Hotel,
Washington, May 19.—(By Constitution Leased Wire)—The series of conferences between republican leaders from Georgia and members of the administration, and of the national republican committee, that have been in progress in Washington daily for ten days, have come to an end, and most of the Georgians today returned to their homes.

These conferences were held on invitation of President Harding, who has been deeply concerned in, if not seriously embarrassed by the warfare that has resulted from the conflicting party wings in that state.

The result under the president's personal touch and direction, therefore, can be summed up tonight in the following concrete statement:

Complete Revolution.

First, all of the fragments of the so-called republican state organization in Georgia, which includes the Johnson and Martin wing of the committee, and the Goree and Karnes wing, will be completely wiped out, and a new state organization in its entirety will be formed.

Second, this revolution will be brought about at a conference of 100 leading white republicans of Georgia, to be held in Atlanta early in June, these conferees to be individually selected by the national committee, not one of whom shall be an office seeker, directly or indirectly, or in the words of the call, "not an office holder, nor seeking office now."

Delegates From Many Cities Along Important Road Attend Chattanooga Meet.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 19.—Reports of progress in road construction by delegates along the route from Chicago to Jacksonville, and election of directors featured to-day's sessions of the Dixie Highway association here, the only changes in the directorate being the addition of Medill McCormick, of Chicago, to the Illinois list, and J. Stacey Hill, of Cincinnati, to the Ohio list.

W. D. McSween, of Newport, Tenn., addressed the meeting in the interest of the Carolina branch of the highway, saying that he understood that a movement was on foot to eliminate this route.

Thomas Quinlan, of Cincinnati, presented an invitation for a booster highway convention in that city in September, with a view of adding interest to the Dixie project and in securing financial aid for backward territory. He said now that federal aid could be secured in the building of Interstate highways, it was possible to rush the Dixie highway to completion.

Rev. V.M. Tumlin Dies in Manner He Had Desired

Had Often Stated He Wanted His End to Come While He Slept.

Having many times expressed the desire that his end might come in a peaceful slumber, Rev. V. M. Tumlin, of 179 Oglethorpe avenue, passed away Thursday afternoon while taking his accustomed after-dinner nap.

The death of Mr. Tumlin, who was 79 years of age and who had on the 13th of this month celebrated the 55th anniversary of his wedding, was discovered by his aged wife who sought to awaken him, fearing that his lengthy nap would interfere with his night's repose. He had sought his couch for a nap about 3 o'clock, after having returned from the mail box, where he had posted a number of letters, and it was about 5 o'clock when it was learned that he was dead.

Mr. Tumlin, who was a Christian Science practitioner, was the father of George W. and Will N. Tumlin, two of Atlanta's best known and popular business men. He is also survived by his wife to whom he has been married for more than a half century, and two daughters, Mrs. W. R. Word, of Atlanta, and Mrs. W. A. Kirkpatrick, of Bessemer, Ala. He also leaves 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Howell is Speaker.

Clark Howell, of Atlanta, spoke to the invitation and stated that he thought the suggestion of holding the next session in Cincinnati a splendid one. He recalled the first meeting of the Dixie Highway association at which the organization was perfected some six years ago in Chattanooga, and stated that he had never attended a meeting where there was displayed more enthusiasm than there was at that organization meeting.

"Since that time millions upon millions of dollars have been spent on the Dixie highway project," he said, "but the work has just begun. A meeting such as has been proposed to be held in Cincinnati in my opinion will stimulate enthusiasm which was stopped up by the war, and by so doing I believe this program can be finished in a year's time."

It is possible that such a meeting might include a plan which have already been launched by the Chattanooga Automobile club for a meeting to be held in this city next month. It is proposed to have a general good roads gathering of all important highway organizations, including the Dixie Lee highway and Lincoln highway associations as well as many others.

Desires to Aid.

Clifford Martin, chairman of the highway council of Cincinnati, said that Cincinnati wanted to help the Warsaw, May 19.—(By the Associated Press)—Captain Emmett Kilpatrick, of Uniontown, Ala., has become insane in the Moscow prison, where he was incarcerated after experiences of brutality and terror, according to reports received here by the Red Cross.

Captain Kilpatrick, who was a Red Cross worker, was captured by the Bolsheviks in the Crimea and for many months has been imprisoned near Moscow. The Red Cross is making every effort to get packages through to Kilpatrick, Mrs. Maguire E. Harrison, of Baltimore, who is an American newspaper woman, and five other Americans confined near Moscow.

Atlanta's bunco investigation is about to end its mundane existence after six weeks of strenuous combative ness yesterday struggled valiantly against the writing of "finis" and postponed the eventual end when arguments in the case against the police and detective departments were postponed until next Monday.

The attorneys were nearly all in the city council chamber when the special committee of that body assembled at 2 o'clock for the final hearing. All the lawyers were bearing ponderous treatises and a general demeanor that they had speeches in their systems. When the barrister roll was called, however, it was discovered that Judge J. K. Hines, counsel for Chief of Detectives Lamar Poole, was absent. His conferees stated that he had been called to Savannah on important legal business.

Hundreds of Helpless Little Children Profit by Benefit Game.

Approximately twenty-five aging athletes took part in the annual contest of the Ad club and the Kiwanis baseball teams in which but eighteen men ordinarily play. Assuming that each athlete was possessed of two legs and two arms, there are exactly fifty arms and a half a hundred legs that their owners would rather do without this morning. But just the same there are twenty-five hearts that are beating with a kindler spirit, there are twenty-five appetites that are vastly improved and there are hundreds of helpless little children who are passed of havens and a chance in the world as a result of those maimed arms and deformed legs.

"It's really worth making a fool of yourself for one afternoon, a year," was the way Arthur Brooks, of the Kiwanis club, explained.

Citizens' Training Camps in Summer"

Washington, May 19.—General Pershing expects to make a personal inspection of each of the citizens' training camps established throughout the country this summer.

In a letter to Grenville Clark, president of the military training camps association of the United States, expressing his regret at not being able to attend the convention of that organization, opening Friday in Chicago, Pershing wrote:

"I plan to visit as many of the camps this summer as possible to meet the candidates. I believe the purpose of these institutions is so closely interwoven with the question of adequate national defense that all Americans should render every assistance and encouragement."

Reluctant to Testify.

C. C. Reese, of 502 Sunset avenue, was the first witness. He was at first reluctant to make a statement. An affidavit was then produced and read. The affidavit, which was recently made and signed by Reese, contained the statement that he had seen the officer in the house with a woman in his lap. Reese then told the board the affidavit was true.

Reese said that Ellis had called at the house, sometimes with his partner, from time to time for at least twelve months. Sometimes the calls were made after midnight, it was alleged.

J. L. Anderson testified that he had seen Ellis take Mrs. Alma Holley, one of the women who lived in the house, for a ride on a rear seat of his machine. L. S. Brantley said he had seen Ellis and other officers at the house. He said that not concern the United States, Harvey declared.

United States Out of League. Commenting directly on the league of nations, Harvey declared:

"There still remains an impression that America may yet be beguiled into the league. It is utterly absurd. America decided against the league by a majority of seven millions."

"The present government will do anything whatsoever to do with the league, with any commission or committee appointed thereby, or indirectly, openly or furtively responsible to it."

Harvey declared that he hoped to strengthen the bonds of friendship and mutual helpfulness between England and America in order that the "respective governments may hereafter prefer durable agreements to tentative compromises between themselves, and will approach world problems from the same angle as inseparable common concerns."

Equipped With Frankness.

The ambassador declared himself utterly destitute of the traditional weapons of diplomacy, but fully equipped with the frankness, straightforwardness and sincerity which characterized the candor of the British statesmen with whom he had come in contact.

He styled himself an unalloyed Briton, the same as Ambassador Geddes, in Washington, is an unalloyed Briton.

Harvey declared America was not concerned with the past or the future momentarily, but with the sentiment of the perilous present.

"I pray that the time is near when Britain and America may master all injustice and iniquities of their race for the sake of their own people, as well as mankind, without sacrificing one iota of independence or individuality."

But, Harvey declared, England and America will accomplish nothing until academic discussions are discarded, and realists are manfully and uncompromisingly discussed. The time has come for "practicing what you preach," he declared.

Lloyd-George Speaks.

Premier Lloyd-George, replying to a question concerning the past or the future, seized upon that portion of the speech dealing with the necessity for co-operation between Great Britain and America for the defense of the Atlantic as the text of his message to the nation.

The premier touched, by innuendo, upon the European situation when he spoke of the recent hatred which hamper true diplomacy.

He welcomed Colonel Harvey as the eminent successor to a long line of British statesmen, and "who knows and understands and sympathizes with England," he declared, "and this is due to the fact that he is thirty-seventh trip across the Atlantic. The future well-being of the world depends more upon the cooperation of Great Britain and America than upon anything else. An Anglo-American entente cordiale is the surest guarantee of future peace, which she does need."

Extent of Hatred.

Lloyd-George declared that he never realized until the making of the Versailles treaty "the extent of the deep-rootedness of racial hatred."

"Diplomacy," he said, "works through a dense thicket of ancient feuds. We can't get through the tangled masses. We welcome America here because her vision is not blurred. She is strong and powerful, able to lead us into the paths of peace."

Touching upon these blood feuds, Ambassador Harvey sat between the Duke of York and the Marquess of Connaught, the political polarizers during his dinner, while his fellow diners enjoyed champagne and light wines. His speech was received with enthusiasm save in part from the colored leaders, which cast the shadow of gloom over the league adherents of whom many were present.

TO REVOLUTIONIZE G. O. P. POLICIES and not the relative of either of an office holder or one seeking office, nor one who holds or is the leading person in any of the leading factions now existing.

Third. There will be no appointments to federal positions in Georgia until this new convention, which is created, shall have been properly organized and begun to function.

White Supremacy.

Fourth. The paramount principle of the new convention will be white supremacy in party affairs and the elimination from county, state and national conventions of any but legally qualified voters.

Fifth. The subcommittee on national republican committee will recommend that the national committee will remain at Atlanta, and the national committee will be reorganized in the regular district units, based upon the number of registered voters, as the minimum unit, and not the relative of either of an office holder or one seeking office, nor one who holds or is the leading person in any of the leading factions now existing.

Sixth. These plans for Georgia are to be adopted in other southern states, which can be successfully established, and with President Harding, Chairman Hays and Attorney-General Daugherty personally working to see the experiment a success, the new convention, which they mean to be a complete revolution in national politics in the so-called "black belt" of the United States.

Seventh. That Lincoln Johnson will be given a suitable appointment and will be treated with as to his resignation as national committee chairman being believed that in the interest of the national party determination to build up a republican party in the south based upon white votes, he will resign, but if he should refuse to do so he will be replaced at the next national convention.

To Extend Plan.

POISONING requires ELIMINATION. The poisoner acts as a doctor, for these poisons, creates a loathing for drink or drugs and overcomes the diseased condition. Dr. J. C. Conaway, to work with the "Dr. K." in charge, Neal Institute, 220 Woodward Ave., Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

convention which in the last analysis created him.

It is not true that the republican leaders in Washington anticipate carrying Georgia into the republicans' fold at any reasonable time within the future. Nor is it true that these conferences have been for the purpose of establishing machinery for the control of the national conventions.

This condition, with the control of all warring elements, literally became the national convention.

Chairman Arnold, chairman of the advisory board of citizens sponsoring the Army's annual appeal.

A general decrease in the amount of the average contribution this year, along with insufficient manpower to actively cover the field, have held the total subscribed to date down to $15,000, whereas the sum needed is $50,000, according to Mr. Arnold.

Chairman Arnold refers to the universally friendly attitude of the public for the Salvation Army and mentions valuable instances of cooperation lent by Atlanta individuals and organizations.

"So far Atlanta has given only $15,000 toward the $50,000 fund needed to let the Salvation Army carry forward its splendid service to the community this year," he said.

"Despite overwhelming sentiment favorable to the Salvation Army and inspiring instances of active aid from individuals and groups of Atlantans, the city faces the unfortunate prospect of failing to support as vitally important and worthy a work as may be found in the community."

"In asking that Atlanta's traditional loyalty and generosity prevent such an eventuality, I would like to emphasize a few of the unwelcome results that lack of sufficient funds would mean."

"Need for the Salvation Army's ministrations to the needy, the helpless and otherwise unfortunate people in our midst is greater than ever before because of recurring business conditions. If the army cannot fulfill its mission properly, financial suffering will be increased in hundreds of cases and in the end the expense will be put to far greater expense in loss of human life. In the name of humanity, the Salvation Army's services will be crippled. The temporary refuge for the stranded woman, the alms for the care of little children, the rescue of disabled persons, the varied other forms of human endeavor will be disastrously handicapped."

BUSINESS IN U. S. GREATLY IMPROVED LUMBERMEN TOLD

Following the election of President Harding with the regular state organization in Georgia also split into fragments, and C. F. Goree, chairman of the state central committee, and Martin Karnes vice chairman, were removed from their positions by the central committee, and John W. Martin was re-elected chairman by the same committee.

A majority of the members of the committee, it is alleged, had been removed by proxy, and the removals, however, claimed that he, as chairman, was created by the state convention, and that he was a state convention delegate called and organized, could remove him. Thus the conflict between two leaders, both claiming to be heads of the state committee, began acute with Johnson, the national committee, siding with Martin.

Appeal is Made.

The national committee was finally appealed to, and Chairman Hays recommended Goree as the state chairman within the week, in view of the fact they alleged, that he had been elected originally.

The new condition made the conflict between these two elements more exciting and irritating to the administration, and between Johnson and the majority of the state committee members refused to recognize Goree as their chief.

In the meantime, while the two had been fighting between these two factions, there were three or four white factions, contending for white supremacy completely in state organization, and for the elimination of which the republican state organization sprang up, and not only began to fight the two organization factions but were equally as precipitate in fighting each other.

This condition, with the control of all warring elements, literally became the national convention.

Chairman Hays is reported to have been acting as chairman of the national committee to be held in Washington on June 8, now approaching.

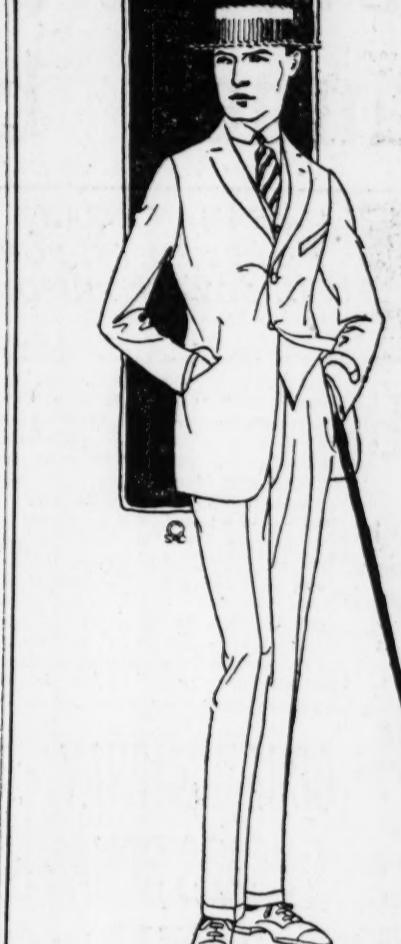

While all of this has been going on, a subcommittee of the national republican committee, appointed by the Chicago convention, has been holding conferences with the view of suggesting some tangible plan by matters. With his knowledge on the heads of all Georgia factions, the chairman of the national committee has organized an effort to pacify the warring elements and prepare a patronage slate for by all.

Up until two weeks ago, it was believed that he would be successful in this undertaking. When the slate became partially put together, however, George Spangler broke out afresh, and it was at this juncture that the president himself took a personal hand in the situation and called a series of conferences with him and others of his advisers, which has just been concluded.

CURRY ELECTED DIXIE MODERATOR

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—Action on the proposed unification of the five creeds of Presbyterian churches in the United States was deferred until next year by the sixty-first general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church, which opened here today.

In delaying action on union, the assembly endorsed the recommendation of a committee appointed last year to formulate a constitution for the proposed amalgamation.

Coal Association

Protests Preference

In Assigning Cars

New York, May 19.—The National Coal Association will protest to the Interstate Commerce Commission against the alleged practice of railroads in giving preference in the assignment of transportation facilities to those mines having railroad fuel contracts.

This action was decided upon today at the opening session of the annual convention of the association, which claims a membership of more than 2,000 operators producing more than 60 per cent of the soft coal of the country.

Washington, May 19.—Demand for thorough investigation of charges that Senator Newberry of Michigan was elected through "substantial expenditures of vast sums" of money was made by Henry Ford, his defeated opponent in the 1918 election, to the Senate Committee to Chairman Dillingham and other members of the senate committee on elections, which will meet tomorrow to determine what action if any should be taken in the case.

Referring to the recent decision of the supreme court, setting aside the conviction of Senator Newberry for accepting contributions from Ford, as contrary to law, Mr. Ford pointed out in his telegrams that the court at the same time "declared the proper place to investigate these charges is the United States,"

HARDWARE MEN ADJOURN TODAY

That the hardware men of the south must compete with the mail order houses if they are to attain any degree of success, was the unanimous opinion expressed at a joint and open discussion by the Southeastern Hardware and Implement association at their Thursday afternoon session in the auditorium. It was declared that recently there had been a tendency throughout Georgia and Florida to overlook the existence of the larger northern mail order houses and the menacing possibility of rapidly acquiring in the hardware field.

It was pointed out that if the southern farmers received more favorable quotations from a mail order house, it was the responsibility of the farmer himself to avail himself of the opportunity of buying at the least cost. The necessity of buying alone, consistent, established lines of organization hardware dealers to sell at a price equally as good, if not better, than that quoted by the mail order houses was shown.

T. B. Glass, president of the Florida Retail Hardware and Implement association, presided. Under the chairmanship of C. E. Ward the open question box was taken advantage of, and it is thought much good will result from the discussion of various phases of the hardware business the details of which were explained by hardware experts thoroughly conversant with this industry.

On Wednesday evening guests and delegates enjoyed an elaborate banquet on the roof of the Ansley hotel, followed by a similar function Thursday evening at the East Lake country club. On Friday morning the delegates visited the Atlanta penitentiary Thursday afternoon.

During Thursday's sessions, "Fire Insurance" and "The Cash Hardware Business" were two problems receiving a large amount of consideration. The convention has so far been entirely successful, officials of the organization meeting on the streets Friday morning, at which time officers for the ensuing year will be elected and installed, the convention will adjourn.

Many prominent hardware merchants of the south and southeast are in attendance at the convention meetings. The executive committee of the southeastern association, all of whom are attending the convention, is composed of:

R. E. Jarman, Jr., Bainbridge, Ga.; R. W. Hatcher, Millen, Ga.; G. S. Morris, St. Augustine, Fla.; Hugh C. Ross, Jackson, Tenn.; J. B. Morton, Bessemer, Ala.; S. Kendrick Guernsey, Orlando, Fla.; Charles X. Bell, Birmingham, Ala.; J. W. Gamble, Montgomery, Ala., and J. W. Taylor, of Winchester, Tenn.

SENATE AND HOUSE TO RESUME THEIR SESSIONS ON FRIDAY

Washington, May 19.—Senate and house, after a day's adjournment out of respect to Chief Justice White, who died Thursday morning, will resume sessions Friday.

Passage of the naval appropriation bill by the senate is expected, with Senator Borah's disarmament amendment included. This amendment authorized President Harding to submit a conference report to the United States, Great Britain and Japan looking toward a reduction of naval building during the next five years.

AUTO ACCESSORY INSURANCE BARRED

was stolen that would be a different matter, this latter not coming under the stipulated terms of the insurance contract.

Mr. Patterson stated that the western conference of automobile underwriters had adopted this plan, and it was expected momentarily for the eastern conference to do likewise. The definite action by the southern conference practically made it a national issue regarding insurance on accessories, he said.

Extra equipment will be paid for the ruling holds, in case the whole car is stolen, but if separate items, coming under the specified non-insurable category, are stolen from the car, the losses will not be assessed by the company.

Causes for the action taken by the national conference are not known, unless it is due to the fact that many organized gangs are making their living now by systematically stealing automobile parts.

FEDERAL WARRANT FOR BOMB SUSPECT

New York, May 19.—A federal warrant was issued today for Giulio de Filippo, Bayonne truck man, detained as a Wall street bomb plotter suspect, charging him with having attempted to destroy the United States census office.

The warrant was issued by United States Commissioner Hitchcock, on complaint of Charles H. Scully, head of the department of justice headquarters in this city, who said De Filippo had been identified by several persons as the driver of the death cart that figured in the explosion.

At the same time the police announced that Thomas Smith, a retired fireman, who several weeks ago identified Tito Liggi, a Scranton suspect, as a man he had seen talking to the driver of the death cart, had told them De Filippo looked like the driver.

Fails to Identify.

It was learned from the New York police that Raymond Clarke, a construction foreman, was one of the witnesses taken to Bayonne today when De Filippo was lined up for identification after his arrest on suspicion there last night.

Clarke failed to identify De Filippo as the man who he claimed ran up to him shortly after the explosion, crying: "My God, that was my wagon!"

Identification of De Filippo as the bomb wagon driver by three men was "positive," and the department of justice has no doubt it has the right man this time, it was announced at the department's headquarters here. Two department officials went to Newark to confer with federal attorneys regarding bringing the prisoner to New York.

Continue Evidence.

Several persons who believed they saw the driver of the explosion cart were taken to Bayonne late today to identify the prisoner, who has been under surveillance several months.

Federal officials said they were also continuing collection of evidence against Liggi, who recently was sentenced to one year for draft dodging.

RISING TEMPERATURE PREDICTED FOR TODAY

Summer, which everyone who works or walks admitted Thursday had arrived in full force, has been carried along by the winds, which have been unusually cool. The freak behavior of the weather is soon to be corrected, according to C. F. von Herrmann, the federal weather forecaster, and the sun will then be securely enthroned, both by day and by night.

A general rise in temperature, with a cool air weather, is anticipated by Mr. von Herrmann. The cool nights have seriously hindered the development of the cotton crop, he said, and, due to the restoration of prosperity among the cotton growers will not continue long.

Arrest of Pastor Causes Sensation In Cartersville

Witness Collapses, Postponing Trial Of Alleged Slayer

Cartersville, Ga., May 19.—(Special.)—One of the liveliest sensations experienced by the people of this city for several years grew out of the recent arrest of Rev. John E. Barnard, pastor of the East Side Baptist church, on the charge of violating the quarantine law, by visiting a little girl whose parents are members of his congregation.

Dr. Barnard, in a statement to the Constitution declared that the child was afflicted with polio-terver, as diagnosed by the attending physician, and that he thought it an injustice to quarantine the family when he declared there was no evidence of the presence of such malady.

He suggested that examinations afterward proved that the child did not have scarlet fever.

"I paid a visit to the child," said Dr. Barnard, "in line of my religious calling on Saturday day of its illness, and again upon the seventh day and upon the closest kind of examination I could discover nothing wrong with the little one."

"I then called the attending physician and asked him if he did not consider it unjust to keep the quarantine on the house when there was nothing wrong with the child—or that it did not have scarlet fever." I told him that I had examined it on Saturday. He told me that I had violated the quarantine law and committed a misdemeanor and that he would have me arrested.

"A warrant was sworn out for me and I was tried before the city police judge who fined me $5. I asked him if there was any alternative but to remain in jail except to serve 10 days in the pikeville jail. "I told him I would not only do my religious duty, and I was taken in custody by the foreman of the street gang."

Dr. Barnard declared that he did not go on the streets but by the officer would moon when he was told to go get his dinner. Upon return from dinner, he said, the foreman told him that the case had been settled by the foreman of the street gang.

With this invitation, this romantic meeting of the old alumni with the new, is expected to be of great interest and significance.

The opening will be taken up by a reception and an informal reception at the Ansley, and at 10 o'clock the convention will be called to order.

The dining room and president of the association followed by an address of welcome by Mayor James L. Key.

On Tuesday the annual banquet will be held at the Winewood hotel, and the delegates will attend in a body party at the Howard theater in the evening as guests of Dobbs & Company.

The local committee on arrangements is composed of C. L. Dinkler, A. B. Moody and W. V. Zimmer.

Bishop Galloway Speaks

Bishop Galloway, of the Episcopal church of America, will preach the baccalaureate sermon, following which the degree of doctor of divinity will be presented by the heads of the various schools of the university, comprising the school of arts, school of music, the journalism school, school of science, school of commerce and business administration and graduate school. Following this, honorary degrees will be conferred upon certain distinguished guests whose names will be announced later.

The senior class will be represented by two of their number, elected by themselves—one to deliver the address of welcome and one to speak the valedictory. Under a division of labor, Karsner of Connerat, the Tabernacle will be decorated with college pennants and colors, and the evening is expected to be one of great interest to all lovers of education.

In addition to the above features, other special events are being planned by Mrs. Lee Astor, first vice-president of the woman's board, details of which will be announced later.

MOTHER NOW SEEKING BOY GONE EIGHT YEARS

Mr. Margaret Hendrickson, of 148 Woodlawn avenue, Aurora, Ill., has asked the Constitution to help her to locate her son, Charles Oscar Hendrickson, who has not been heard of by his mother in eight years. If alive, he is 50 years old, 5½ feet high, light brown hair, grey eyes, and at the time of his disappearance, was slightly bald and of medium weight. He was a carpenter by trade.

DORSEY PAMPHLET PROBE TO BE ASKED

Macon, Ga., May 19.—(Special)—Resolutions calling for the appointment of nine members of the Georgia state legislature to the general assembly to investigate the charges made by Governor Hugh M. Dorsey in his pamphlet, "The Negro in Georgia," to determine if such conditions, existing toward the prevention of such conditions, will be introduced by Ben J. Fowler, one of Bibb's representatives, when the legislative session opens in June. It is learned today.

Included in the resolutions are certain instructions to the committee to inquire into the establishment of a state constabulary to ascertain whether counties in which lynching, the drawing of grand and petit juries, and the practice of alienating financially, whether a commission of three superior court judges should be appointed to inquire into a lynching; whether the governor should direct in case of a lynching occur where no one is petit juror from the state at large and establish the venue in the case, and to make further recommendations.

FEDERAL OFFICER TO BE TRIED TODAY ON GRAFT CHARGE

Savannah, Ga., May 19.—(Special)—Postmaster, Dept. of S. Marshall, A. M. Kea indicted some weeks ago by former Chief of Police Woods, of the city of Savannah, government officer Moye, on a charge of conspiracy to accept "protection" considerations from alleged "bootleggers", will be placed on trial in the federal court on April 26. Woods and Moye will be tried later.

T. Tanner, of 17 Markham street, left his home in apparently good spirits at 6 o'clock on the morning of April 18, supposedly to assist her in determining his future as moulder at the Pacific planing mill, on Highland avenue, but instead of going to work, he gathered his tools into his grip and, stating that he intended to be off for a week or so, disappeared and has not been seen here since.

His wife, who has asked The Constitution to assist her in determining his fate, last heard of him in few days. He is 42 years old, 5 feet, 19 1/2 inches high, has brown hair and blue eyes, and weighs about 160 pounds.

Recital at Edison Hall.

The recital given on Wednesday afternoon in the Edison hall, 182 Peachtree street, was a decided success from the musical and literary point of view, but proved to be one of the most delightful evenings spent in the Edison hall this season.

The stage was decorated in ferns and sweet peas, and the Laborator Model Edison phonograph occupied the center of the stage. The readings which Mrs. Duane Thomas Youell gave were exceptionally fine, particularly the selection "After the War," and the selection by Francis E. Calhoun, "The Willing Worker," was most happily received.

The selections as given by Mr. Edison's invention were the following re-creations:

Mignon Fantasia, part II, by American Symphony orchestra.

When the Angelus is Ringing,

Sunshine of Your Smile, cornet solo, by Katzman.

Dream Faces, Thomas Chalmers and Alsha, Indian Intermezzo, by Edison's Brass orchestra.

Stride La Vampa, from Trovatore, by Margaret Schenauer.

Song of the Joyce, by Edison's String orchestra.

Charmant Oiseau La Perle Du Brésil, by Miss Anna Case.

The great success of the evening was typical of Atlanta's appreciation of the effort put forth to make the Edison hall a musical center, and the program which was arranged by Mr. R. Norman is one that will remain in the hearts of the people for a long time.

Miss Arline W. Lane, graduate of Dunn College, and Mrs. G. L. Gellen, who joined Mr. Youell and Mr. Youell in their vocal selections entitled "My Ships" and "Pleading."

PROVEN BY DEFENSE.

With the taking of testimony in the councilmanic buncu investigation concluded, it appears conclusively the charges of the three Fulton county grand juries, that for more than three years the city detective department has been either incompetent or in connivance with crime, have been abundantly proven.

Evidence introduced by the representatives of the public in the investigation, and uncontroversial, is enough to sustain the charges; but what is of even greater significance is not only the lack of defense, but the fact that the position of the grand juries has been simply justified by testimony introduced by counsel for the accused detectives.

For example, at the hearing Friday afternoon the defense put on the stand an admitted whisky trafficker to impeach the testimony of Henry Smith, a former witness, in regard to alleged sales of whisky to Al Martin, who was at that time not only a member of council, but chairman of the police committee of council and ex-officio member of the board of police commissioners. This witness testified that for about two years he had been regularly engaged in the business of hauling whisky into Atlanta and disposing of it to his customers—bootleggers and blind tigers—in this city.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Black, the witness admitted that while he had been associated with Smith only a few months during the two years Smith had testified he had been supplying liquor in wholesale quantities to Police Commissioner Martin, but that for all of this time he himself had been selling whisky in this city.

Here is a significant excerpt from his testimony—

"How much whisky would you bring to town?"
"About 250 gallons a week."
"You were never arrested in Atlanta?"
"No sir."
"How long were you hauling whisky?"
"Two years—about."
"How many other fellows were dealing whisky in Atlanta regularly?"
"I knew of 30 or 40."
"That's about 7,500 gallons a week, isn't it?"
"I guess so."

And this is the testimony of a witness introduced to prove that the detective department of Atlanta has been neither incompetent nor in connivance with crime!

Later on Mr. Black asked another defense witness, a deputy sheriff—

"Do you see how it is possible for a man to deliver 200 to 300 gallons of liquor a week for two years and escape arrest?"

"I do not," was the laconic reply. But the whisky-sellers know "how it is possible!"

And any citizen of reasoning power knows that it would be absolutely impossible except by reason either of incompetence or of venality of the officers who are sworn to protect the public welfare and enforce the law!

In ordinary trial procedure it is the prosecution that proves the guilt of the accused, if guilt exists. But in this instance, it appears, the charges under investigation would have been abundantly sustained by the defense itself, even had the prosecution refrained from calling a single witness!

THE HUMAN SIDE.

The following editorial paragraph from the Southern News Bulletin, is reproduced by The Tifton (Ga.) Gazette, under the heading, "Here's a Human Touch."

"A railroad is not the unfeeling and relentless devourer of automobiles and little children at grade crossings described by impassioned advocates in crowded court rooms. The whistle of danger is an engineer's use of a piece of machinery, but it is also an echo of a man's thought for his own babies left at home."

The same thought has been expressed in many stories and poems of the incoming and outgoing whistle of the engine.

Bret Hart did it better than any one else in his poem of the engineer's signal to his wife as he passed the town of Providence in the night.

She knew, by that signal, that all was well on the line—that he was at the throttle; and she smiled, and kissed his children in their sleep.

And the other folks in Providence Town, accustomed to that greeting and farewell, said, "Guild's at his post—to his trust true!"

The poem, known to every school boy, relates that the only time the welcome and farewell message of the whistle was missed was when "Guild lay under his engine—dead."

"I want to meet the engineer," said an Atlanta man, recently, "who sends a midnight message over the sleeping hills in a long, low, farewell whistle. I know he is signalling to the home and loved ones he has left behind. I like to think of it that way, and when his whistle wakes me—as it never fails to do—I send a word of blessing after him."

The engineer seems to send his heart back home in that whistle as he drives his engine through the dark.

And it is also a farewell message for many hearts and homes whose welfare is in his keeping, dependent upon his being "true to his trust."

His is a great responsibility; life and death are in his hands, as is the case with practically all in position of high trust in the running of a railroad, which is a very human affair after all!

TWO GREAT AMERICANS.

In the deaths of Edward Douglass White, chief justice of the United States supreme court, and Franklin Knight Lane, former secretary of the interior, the country suffered the loss of two outstanding Americans.

Each was a man of extraordinary intellectual power, and one who, in his respective sphere of activity, rendered unusual service to the nation and left a name that will live long in the pages of history.

Each too, was a man essentially of the masses, who, equipped by nature with a powerful mind, had arisen to a place of eminence in the government.

Both were democrats—democrats and democratic in every sense. Chief Justice White was a southern product, born and reared in Louisiana.

His public life began while he was still a young and ambitious lawyer. After a distinguished career as judge and later as representative of his state in the United States senate, he was elevated to the supreme court bench by President Cleveland, a democrat, and on December 12, 1910, President Taft, a republican, designated him to be chief justice, which post of great honor and power he occupied with dignity and distinction until removed from it by the real American boy.

The young boy that does not know more than his father, is not a real American boy.

Since his graduation from the Tifton Gazette tells this one—"A prominent citizen of Ty Ty, a leading member of the Methodist church, was seen the other day carrying two hoes. Somebody asked him why two? He said that when he used a hoe he worked so rapidly and so steadily that the friction heated the hoe so that he had to be constantly changing to a cool implement.

When you watch the "Passing Show" every day on the street corner, it is hard to believe that the peach crop is hurt.

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

Atlanta may throw plain, ordinary, common fits each year when artists are imported like Passian perfume and Parmesan cheese to warble for the delirious each spring. But when it comes to throwing fancy fits, both duck and epicure, Atlanta best knows how to accomplish it when the city's own cavaliers and cavarellers decide to paint the lily and adorn their physiognomies with grease paint, and don't mind the substitute for the business when a 1921 revue is to be presented.

Ocular demonstration of this fact was given Thursday morning at 10 o'clock when the seat sale for the Junior League Follies of 1921 was opened to the public. There was a line of two or three ranks that stretched right back to the Atlanta theater and some in that line had been waiting since 5 o'clock in the morning, which is an unholy hour to arise for any purpose except to go fishing.

Went Like Hot Cakes.

And, according to the managers of the Junior League, the tickets were like hot cakes, something marked down to 93 cents a yard. This year there will be four performances of the Follies and performances of the green demand was opening night, Monday, there was the liveliest kind of competition for the seats for the other performances. Still there are enough left to keep anyone who has been looking forward to the event from pinning away in case he or she didn't get to the Atlanta theater. That's all.

The reason for the rush isn't hard to find, according to a person posted psychologically on things theatrical, manager of the Lewis Hasse, manager of the Atlanta.

"Look at that line of girls there being photographed and you have the reason, he elaborated. "They are the reigning beauties of the year. We've been reading of them and seeing their pictures and hearing about them for some months now. Anybody has a chance to get a view of them in action and sit back in a chair and enjoy their beauty and their grace to the accompaniment of music and the seats for the other performances. It's the kind of attraction hurial plot lies under Georgetown's aged oaks. Members of the cabinet, of both houses of congress, of the senate and house, and bar, and scores from the humbler walks of life will comprise the unofficial escort.

Friends of the Catholic church, from other churches of Washington and from nearby cities have asked to be permitted to assist at the services as a testimonial to the high repute of the first of John Marshall.

Resolution Adopted.

The senate adopted a resolution providing for a committee to represent the funeral. The committee included Senator Lodge, who served with the chief justice in the senate; Senator Underwood of Alabama; the Democratic leaders of Maryland, Abel Braxton, of Louisiana, Mr. White's native state; and Senators Nelson, republican, Minnesota; an Overman, representative of the small man and ranking democratic members, respectively, of the senate judiciary committee.

The senate majority of the federal government will be halted during the funeral Saturday under an executive order issued today by President Harding. The president directed that no executive departments in Washington be closed that day; that the usual military and naval ceremonials be conducted so that all legations and consulates of the United States in foreign countries, the American flag be displayed at half mast for thirty days.

Coincidences are always happening, but perhaps the most remarkable will be the selection of ex-President Taft for the chief justiceship, and it comes about in this way:

The last time a vacancy occurred in the office of chief justice, Taft was president and had the naming of the new incumbent. The then chief justice, Melville W. Fuller, died in December, 1910, and Taft made up his mind to appoint Charles E. Hughes to the vacancy. Hughes was already a member of the supreme court, having been appointed two months earlier, in October.

Changed His Mind.

Taft's decision to advance Hughes to the vacancy at the head of the court was final so far as he himself was concerned. On two succeeding days he had been ready to announce the appointment, and had told the newspaper men that it would be made at a given hour. But during the 48 hours preceding the appointed time, he changed his mind. This change was based upon Hughes' lack of experience as a jurist, though able lawyer he was recognized to be.

The pair was arraigned before Judge Johnson Thursday afternoon, and the charge against them were dismissed. Before they were released, however, they were required to submit to a medical examination by the city physician, who ordered them held for treatment at the stockade.

When the two were arrested, the young woman was dressed in male attire, and tried to run away. It was stated they were married only a few days ago, and that because of sickness, Bonnard had lost his job. They heard of available positions in Atlanta, Ga., and, having no funds, decided to "count the crossties."

Aguilar Arrested.

El Paso, Texas, May 19.—Candido Aguilar, foreign minister in the Carrillo cabinet, and son-in-law of the late Mexican president, was arrested at Marathon, Texas, Thursday, charged with violation of the passport law, it was learned here today.

Surprised Republicans.

At any rate President Taft named Justice White to the chief justiceship much to the surprise of nearly all republicans as White was not only a confederate veteran but a democrat. This appointment, however, drew President Taft closer to the heart of the south and when Mr. Wilson had the opportunity to reciprocate in kind by appointing Taft to the supreme bench and failed to do so, it is no secret there was a feeling of resentment in the south that swept from the Potomac to the Rio Grande.

There are many who believe that Hughes will be appointed now by reason of his cherished desire to get back on the bench and the president's kindly wish to "please and make happy," but the viewpoint is not general.

The funeral will be characterized by the simplicity which distinguished the late chief justice of his country. From the family residence on Rhode Island Avenue an unostentatious cortège will follow the body Saturday morning to St. Matthews church, where solemn high requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 o'clock by the Right Rev. Mons. Thomas S. Lee, the pastor.

Funeral Not "Official."

In compliance with the wishes of the family, everything tending to make the funeral "official" has been eliminated from the plans, but every phase of government and every degree of public life will be represented among those who will gather to do Chief Justice White a last honor.

His associates of the supreme court will serve as honorary pall-bearers from the church to Oak Hill cemetery, where the family will be buried.

No need to eat yeast cakes any more. Eat yeast in the easy way—pleasant tablet form, as embodied in Ironized Yeast.

Everyone has heard of the seeming wonder performed by yeast, especially in cases of loss of weight, weakness, poor appetite, mal-nutrition and general "rundown" conditions.

The real reason for these amazing results is that yeast contains a certain mysterious element called vitamines which we do not get in our breads or cakes, but which is absolutely necessary for good health and proper development.

Ironized Yeast contains highly concentrated brewer's yeast, far richer in vitamins than ordinary baking yeast. In addition, it contains iron and other well-known health builders, that you really get two splendid things in one.

If you want to put on good solid flesh, if you want to increase your strength so that you can tackle hard work and eat well, if you want to put good health color in your cheeks, and feel "fit" all the time, then try Ironized Yeast. Fine for children, too.

The Misses' company, who is interested in the War Eagle mine, has gone to the scene of the fire with bloodhounds.

In most cases Ironized Yeast will bring a decided improvement by the third day. The slow-worm complexion usually disappears in less than two weeks. Find out how it is to be in perfect health all the time! Get Ironized Yeast today.

Packed in convenient Sanitary containers, that you can slip in your vest pocket. Cost no more per dose than yeast cakes (only 10c. a day).

Special directions for children in each package. Made by the Ironized Yeast Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Paints

Don't get fooled like Mr. Dupree and a lot of other folks

M. R. Dupree is a Georgia cotton grower. He lives at The Plains near Americus and works about 20 miles.

One day, a couple of years ago, along came a chap selling paint. Dupree never saw him before (or since) but he told such a straightforward story about his paint and the new way it was made; how it would outlast others and all that sort of thing, that Dupree bought enough to paint his house.

It sure did look fine for a couple of months. But before the year was up, it was cracking, peeling and actually rubbed off on your clothes. He couldn't get any satisfaction from the firm he bought it from, as they had gone out of business.

Mr. Dupree said he'd like it, if we would spread the facts broadcast as a warning to others, against buying paint from men you didn't know, who might be right in your own town, were men you did. Men who sold paint, they would absolutely stand back of such men, we might add, as you always find selling Lowe Brothers paint.

Ad Club Gets Sweet Revenge By Trimming Kiwanis Kidders

So Many Runs Tallyed in the Eighth Inning That the Scorers Quit in Disgust.

If the Ad Club's baseball team was looking for nothing except revenge at Ponce de Leon yesterday, a safe bet this morning would be that they are entirely satisfied with the quantity they secured during their annual battle with the Kiwanians.

The Ad clubbers were licked to a standstill and secured a real ball game, but the runs, hits and errors of the Kiwanians yesterday could not even rival the for-malicious flight of tallies run up by the Inch Hounds, who won the game, 25 to 7.

Those figures are probably not correct. There must have been one or two or three more runs never looked in that bloody eighth, when the Ad Men sent enough runs in to stagger the attendance floor and cause the score to be higher than swoon before the agony was merci-bly brought to a close. The figures are approximated, it being too early to get a definite score.

The game was played for charity's sake, and one glared at the little tots in the stands who will benefit through the generosity of the local ball game, though he failed to make the most hardened critic forget that the event had been heralded as a real ball game. The Atlanta Club House and the Hotel exchequers increased about a thousand dollars each, as there were ing tickets but failing to come out

No Casualties.

That there were no casualties is the one thing both teams are thankful for at this time—the dust has been cleared off the scene, and we

NAPIER'S FATE HANGS IN BALANCE

if the returns of the election to the general assembly with others which are required by law under this procedure.

But the press was all wrong, stated Mr. McLendon, and caused him to travel farther along the road than he went in his letter. To make his remarks understood, the secretary now says he will simply state the facts to the general assembly and ask for instructions.

Secretary's Letter.

His letter in full is as follows:

Honorable Geo. M. Napier,

Atlanta, Ga.

My Dear Sir:

Yesterday's morning and afternoon papers carried me a little farther along the road than I traveled in my letter to you of May 17.

For nearly four years that the Constitution was proposed there shall be an Attorney-General and that he shall be elected "at the same time for the same term and in the same manner" was biennially interpreted, nor in words, but in action. Beginning with 1880, every Governor, every General Assembly, every Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and every Attorney-General adopted this interpretation in practice. The returns of the election for Attorney-General were canvassed by the General Assembly in joint session and the result was officially declared by the General Assembly. This was not mere precedent, but was a long continued practice, participated in by the legal, executive and judicial departments.

In your mandamus proceeding, your prayer was in the alternative, that is to say, you wanted the court to direct the Secretary of State either to consolidate the vote for Attorney-General and certify the result to the governor, or to transfer the returns in this office to the Governor.

WADDILL IS NAMED TO FEDERAL BENCH

WORK IS ON AT HOYLAKE

Hoyle, England, May 19.—Secious practice for the impending annual golf championship commenced here yesterday when a number of American and British entrants stayed over the course.

The tournament has been practicing regularly since their arrival here, and the form they have displayed has been most creditable.

Judge Waddill succeeds the late Judge Jeter C. Pritchard.

As the successor of Judge Waddill on the district bench of the eastern district of Virginia, Mr.
Daugherty named D. Lawrence

Cramer, of Norfolk, Va., to the appointment of James M. Beck, of New York, as solicitor-general.

He was also announced by the Attorney-General that he would be mailed to the Governor, not by the Secretary of State, but by 155 boards of election managers.

Mr. Beck explained to you the difficulty in the way of my complying with your request of the 16th, which was that I would immediately transmit the returns to the Board of Election Managers.

I expressed my interpretation of the Constitution, but there is a wide difference between an expression of opinion and the decision of purpose.

I am confronted now with this situation: In declaring that these returns should have been mailed to the Governor, not to the Supreme Court, I did not the legislature, but I do not know that I cannot lay them before the legislature?

This is not a trivial matter, and does not much depend on the decision of the court of last resort.

The question still hangs over me:
What shall I do with these returns?

Section 152 of the Code established a rule of non-delivery in case

I think is good, both as to Constitutional offices and as to Constitutional offices. That section declares: "No election shall be delayed for no length of time, with the requirements of the law, if held at the proper time and place by persons qualified to hold them." It is not shown that by this non-delivery, the result is different from what it would have been had there been proper compliance."

It is clear that there has clearly been non-compliance, but it does not defeat your election for the reason that the election was held at the proper time and place and by persons qualified to hold them.

As the case stands, if I should lay the election returns before the legislature the point might be made that the Supreme Court had decided that the returns should have been mailed to the Governor. But the election blanks sent out, containing the instruction that the returns should be sent to the Secretary of State, brings about what I deem a temporary misplacement of these returns.

Do you not think it is my duty, simply to state the facts to the General Assembly and ask for instructions?

SCARBORO IS HONORED

Dewey Scarboro was elected Thursday to captain the 1921 Tech track team and Henry Granger was selected as alternate. The election followed an assembling of the 19 letter men and the selections of the tracksters met with general approval all over the campus.

Dewey is a Junior and made his entrance at Tech in the days of the late-lamented S. A. T. C. Though small of stature he has always been a prominent member of Tech's varsity football squad, having won three tries in the grid game. But it is in the track that he stars the most and his work in the 100-yard dash and the broad jump is too bad that Mile, Lengenton is not coming over here to try conclusions with our women players, and possibly with some of our gridiron players in doubles.

Strain of Competition.

The interesting question concerning the approaching intercollegiate games at Cambridge relates to whether or not the tremendous pace at which athletes have been going through the winter on board tracks, and in the spring, golfing, will be continued.

Until recently the contests suffered from heavy rains, and reports that they were flooded were in circulation, but since the downpour ceased,
there has been a remarkable drought. The result is that the grass is almost over-luxurious, while a stroll through the park is a treat as rare as can be.

"It is small wonder," says The Times expert, "that under these conditions many players have been able to complete in six strokes less than they could reasonably expect to achieve it. With a little more rain and more wind, we shall no doubt hear different stories."

The expert declares he is in the least depressed after considering the qualities of E. W. E. Holderness and Harry Braud with those of many other candidates possessing splendid qualifications. It has been agreed that the selection of Judge Ross would best meet the require-

Stocks Resume Downward Trend; No Buying Power

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, May 19.—There was no definite trend to the stock market during the first hour. But after 11 o'clock the downward price movement which has been going on since a week ago last Friday was resumed. Declines of from one to five points occurred before noon, after which there was some recovery. Scattered liquidation, bears selling and absence of buying power were the features of today's market.

National Enameling led the decline. Last February the 6 per cent dividend of the company for this year was declared payable in quarterly installments of 1½ per cent. Therefore, there was no question of dividends involved in today's sharp five-point price decline. There was some talk of a resumption of foreign competition which would reduce the company's large earnings to a pre-war basis. That, however, was expected. A better explanation for today's decline was the offering of large blocks which the market would not take except at considerable price concessions.

Chandler-Motor made a new low record for the year and Peoples Gas and the Hill stocks were also heavily sold. The best judges of the stock market expect the downward price movement to culminate in one very active million-share day when such an occasion should be used to buy stocks. It is possible that the climax to the present downward price movement will not be reached until after public offering has been made of the new bond issue now overhanging the market.

In connection with these overhanging new issues it was learned today that the treasury had received a larger percentage of subscriptions to the offering just made of $200,000,000 5½ per cent certificates than for any other issue. Subscription mounted up to $632,000,000 which was understood by bankers here to mean that there a very large fund of idle money in the country seeking temporary employment. Predictions were made that Secretary Mellon, because of these conditions, would reduce the interest on the next offering of treasury certificates.

Labor May Go to Court to Halt Pay Cuts.

Today's Washington dispatches report that the leaders of railroad labor are considering the advisability of waiting for the railroad board to hand down its decision on June 1 regarding the extent of the cut to be made in wages and then attempt to get a court order restraining the carriers from putting the lower wages into effect until the decision of the labor board has been reviewed first by the lower federal court and then by the supreme court. According to these dispatches the railway labor leaders argue that this status of the labor board is the same as that of the interstate commerce commission and that the decisions of the Interstate commerce commission have frequently been carried to the courts.

Such arguments, however, will not stand close examination. The Interstate commerce commission has drastic powers given by congress to enforce its decisions. No such powers were given to the labor board which was created under the new transportation act passed last February a year ago. All that the labor board can do is to hold hearings and "make public its decisions in such manner as it may determine. The only power the labor board has to enforce its decisions is in an appeal to public sentiment.

But no other power is needed. If the railroad labor board can show that the cost of living on which the increase of pay of last year was based has come down and that other industries are paying less than the railroads, a reduction of railroad wages ordered to meet such conditions will certainly be backed by public sentiment. And in such event railway labor will have to give in.

Moreover, if the labor board orders a reasonable cut in wages which will have the support of the public and railway labor refuses to accept the cut, then railway labor will have no standing before the labor board the next time a request is made for higher wages. That is a point which labor leaders are likely to keep in mind. The new labor board can give as well as take as has already been proved by the increases in wages already ordered. The public recognizing the justice of the higher wage awards made by the labor board paid the higher rates demanded without a murmur. Now it is labor's turn to accept a decision in the same spirit.

Offering in French Loan to Be Made Soon.

Despite the denials made only a few days ago by J. P. Morgan & Co., that negotiations for $100,000,000 new French loan were on and likely to be concluded at an early date it was learned today that the offering of this loan is likely to be made early next week; that it probably will carry interest at the rate of 7½ per cent; that it will run 15 or 20 years; that it will be non-callable; that it will probably be offered to the investing public at 95. It was also learned in the banking circles that negotiations are on for a $10,000,000 loan to Uruguay and for one of a similar amount to the Union of South America. London has always done the financing of the country last named.

Pennsylvania crude oil was cut today 25 cents a barrel—to $3.25 a barrel. This follows the cut made on other eastern grades a day or so ago. The low price for Pennsylvania crude for the year was made at $3 after which several advances occurred. The high wartime price was made at $6.10 last year. Early this year there was a steady drop from about $5 to $3.

Directors of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company, who were elected at yesterday's annual meeting of shareholders, held a meeting this morning and elected H. P. Sinclair, now president, chairman of the board. E. W., his brother, was made president. E. W., who has been director of Sinclair for some time, is president of the Exchange National bank of Tulsa, Okla., a big financial institution. He will resign from that position to devote all of his time and energy to the Sinclair Consolidated.

Secretary Hoover, like Secretary Mellon, believes this country is in the last lap of this year's readjustment of prices, wages and dividends. In speaking before the National Association of Manufacturers at the convention being held here to discuss world trade, Mr. Hoover says: "We are still in the throes of war readjustment. We have soundly the very depth of our economic life and have known the utter dislocation of our commerce and industry. Gradually we are solving our problems and things will return to normal sooner or later, and I fancy it will be sooner than is expected generally. Our shipping situation is being liquidated; our railroad difficulties are being overcome; consumption of essentials is in progress on a larger scale than many people realize."

COTTON WILL GET SPECIAL ATTENTION

BY JAMES A. HOLLOWAY.

Washington, May 19.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Special attention will be given by the government in preparing their crop report on cotton acreage, such as the reduction in the use of fertilizers, the early abandonment on account of unfavorable weather and the lack of financial support. The bill has been given by Acting Secretary Ball of the department of agriculture, after the importance had been urged by Senator Harris of Georgia.

Secretary Ball wrote direct to Secretary Harry Jordan, of the American Cotton Association. St. Louis, asking that the association had written Senator Harris about the various phases touching on the importance of accurate reports in view of the large cotton supply now existing on the effect on market prices which have been depressed for sometime.

The letter of acting Secretary Ball says:

"Ask to be advised of the date when the first report on cotton acreage will be issued and call attention to the fact that paying special attention this season to the quantities of fertilizers used and the early abandonment on account of unfavorable weather."

Mississippi: Unusually cold weather detrimental to growth of crop, replanting continues. Very little chopping. Crop from three to four weeks late.

Missouri: Planting delayed by excess moisture. Probably reduced acreage.

Arkansas: Planting still delayed, only about ten per cent having been planted. The new vaudeville bill for the week-end at the Lyric with a repertoire of old and new favorite selections on the accordion.

Kansas: American eccentric juggler, in addition to being a juggler, the cleverest of performers in his line, adds spice to his act with a constant line of chatter and extremely difficult feats of dexterity he displays.

Other acts on the program are offered by Harry Welton and Marjory Marshall, in "The Hair Hunter," and George Hug in "Just Happily," featured by songs and effective net comedy, and Herbert Ashby, assisted by Joe Dorsey, in "An Unusual Conversation." News and feature pictures completed the program.

Lowell Vaudeville.

(At the Lyric.)

The best show in six months is on at Lowell's Grand. Each of the five acts is different and all are more than excellent. Work Mack open the show. They are gymnasts who have modernized their art and put humor into their skill as an act.

The second spot is filled by Sinclair and Anderson, one of a fine baritone, the other a dazzling soprano voice.

Connors and Boyne, a mixed duo, could leave the stage after singing a few numbers and still earn the salaries. Their skirt is new, swift and hilarious. A male trio, Waters, Winkler and Churchill, are splendidly balanced voices to call attention. The Five Musical Buds are all pretty and contrive to make the instrumental offering fully worthy of the place.

"Coincidence," a fast-moving melodrama with a humorous slant, is the film feature.

The factors you mention as being important this season are always very cheerfully investigated by the world's best-known crop reporters of the department as well as many other factors which are important every year in some portions of the cotton belt.

Oklahoma: Planting progressing.

Tennessee: Reports of lice in southern districts and boll weevils in central districts.

Mellon Favors Farmers' Credits Be More Liberal

Washington, May 19.—More liberal rural credits and extension of the maximum loan amount limit by the federal reserve banks on agricultural paper was favored today by Secretary Mellon as a means of reducing the farmer's discount limit for live stock paper.

Extension of the maximum credit limit, he added, and measures were already before congress to that end.

The federal reserve banks, he said, would be sufficiently protected if there was an extension on such paper as the member banks re-discount guarantee the loans which they have extended to the farmers.

Tongue-tied Business

It often occurs that a man reaches out after a higher class of business which he does not get—and wonders why.

To the advertising expert the reason is very simple; this man is not talking to his prospective customers in an appealing manner; what he says, does not carry enough force with it. Perhaps he is using "shoddy" looking stationery which is not engraved in a manner that will attract the public—We can say a great deal about this—Call up our city salesman (Ivy 7214) and have him explain these valuable points. They are a combination of glass, allowing you to see both near and far with one solid glass. No removing your reading glass to see distant objects; no seams, lines or blisters to worry you or attract attention of others to your age. DEPUTIES SOLIDLY
BACK OF BRIAND

BY HUDSON HAWLEY.
United News Staff Correspondent.

Paris, May 19.—The concerted attack of all the verbal artillery of the opposition and the press upon Premier Aristide Briand failed to move the chamber of deputies during the opening day of the Silesian and railroad strike Thursday.

André Tardieu's brilliant and scathing play of words—delivered in the sing-song droning style that is characteristic of the man—had not many words and nothing more. He fell on stony ears. He was listlessly applauded for his fitness and the studied logic of his attack. But logic cannot defeat sentiment. The movement of the chamber is Briand's.

At the close of the session predictions were freely made in the lobby that the majority would be won over by an overwhelming majority, perhaps by 450 votes, when the ballot is called on Friday.

Aroused by Briton.

The chamber is aroused to fighting pitch by Lloyd-George's broadsides.

Briand would be given his vote of confidence if he were a royalist or communist.

MAN IS BADLY HURT
WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Another abandoned baby came into the hands of police authorities Thursday morning. The matron of the children's playroom of the Peachtree Arcade notified the police that a two months old girl had been left with her by Mrs. Honeyuckle, who lives on Chapel road, just outside the city limits, and a search is being conducted for the woman who left her at the Honeyuckle home and who claimed to be the mother.

According to the story, told by Mrs. Honeyuckle, a young woman came to her home on May 17, bringing the baby, and left it to be left there temporarily, promising to return later and arrange for her board. The offer was accepted, but she never returned to carry out her promise. It is now Mrs. Honeyuckle keeping the child until Thursday, when, not knowing what else to do, she turned it over to the Peachtree Arcade matron.

Policewoman Vanille McDonough took the baby to Grady hospital where temporary arrangements have been made for its care. In the meantime, police are searching for the young woman, an accurate description of whom was given by Mrs. Honeyuckle. The police said on May 7 and 8 the woman in question, who gave her name as Ethel Holcombe, when leaving the child, registered at the City Hotel on South Forsythe street as Mrs. Charles Thomas.

While the shipowners have announced that they would not sign any agreement to reduce Chairman Benson said late today he had not determined his course in the matter. He would prefer not to sign any agreement, he added, but finally did it could be only out of consideration for the men, and it would contain a clause providing for termination at thirty days.

Chairman Benson reiterated his stand for a 15 per cent reduction, and declared that he would consider this by raising overtime scales upward. He would concede overtime, he added, only where necessary, and then the pro rata rate for the eight-hour day.

Discussing the general situation, the chairman said that so far this week sailings had been 40 per cent greater than for the corresponding period last month.
